Our Resilient Heritage programme offered grants of between £3,000 and £250,000 to:

- help strengthen organisations
- build staff and volunteer capacity

- better manage heritage in the long term.

We wanted to find out if our funding enabled grantees to increase their organisational resilience, increase their capacity or achieve significant strategic change.

Our evaluation of Resilient Heritage has to date shown us that:

- grantees overwhelmingly report that their organisation is better managed or expect it to be in the future because of our funding
- that staff, trustees or volunteers have developed skills or intend to
- that their organisation is more resilient or is on its way to being more resilient in the future
