

Yorkshire and the Humber 15th Anniversary

18/10/2009

This November the National Lottery is celebrating its 15th anniversary. Since 1994 over £23 billion - that's £25million each week - has been raised by Lottery players for the arts, sport, heritage, environment, education, health, charity and voluntary sectors.

In that time, the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF) has been transforming a wide range of heritage for present and future generations to learn from and enjoy. It has revitalised hundreds of museums, parks, historic buildings, landscapes and wildlife sites, but has also given new meaning to heritage itself.

People from every walk of life are now involved with the heritage that inspires them, making choices about what they want to keep and share from the past, for future generations.

Fiona Spiers, Head of the Yorkshire and the Humber region, explains the importance of funding our rich heritage, and how it makes a difference not only to protecting and conserving our past, present and future, but also to the lives of the people involved: "Reaching our 15th year is a great achievement for the Heritage Lottery Fund. In Yorkshire and the Humber alone we have invested a staggering £341 million to over 2,500 projects, which celebrate the fantastic diversity of this region's heritage. In addition to preserving our wonderful museums and ancient buildings, HLF is also conserving the natural world, by opening up and restoring our beautiful parks and landscapes.

We are also committed to improving access and learning, and working to protect the memories of past generations that otherwise may be lost. Our projects encourage people of all ages to gain new skills and to volunteer. These projects also energise local communities to get involved in and make decisions about their heritage."

Find out more from the people who make it all happen. Below are just a few examples of how lottery players' cash has made a difference to people's lives and the world around them.
