All Our Stories: find out how YOU could apply for a lottery grant at the BBC's roadshow event – Museum of Liverpool

30/05/2012

The Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF) will be at the BBC's The Great British Story event at the Museum of Liverpool this Saturday to announce details of a new £1million grant programme for local heritage projects.

All Our Stories, is a new UK-wide £1m grant programme designed to help local communities explore and celebrate their past. All Our Stories has been developed in support of The Great British Story – A People's History. Presented by Michael Wood on BBC Two from Friday 25 May, the exciting new history series will explore the history of our nation through the eyes of ordinary people over the last 1,600 years, and will be accompanied by a BBC Learning road show during May to July giving visitors a unique opportunity to find out more about their own personal history as well as that of their local area.

The North West England team is hoping that local groups who are interested in finding out how they can uncover their local history will join them at the Museum of Liverpool, from 10am-5pm (free entry and no pre-booking needed), where they will be on hand to provide advice and information about how to apply for lottery funding.

All Our Stories is a new, simple, funding scheme with grants available ranging from £3,000 - £10,000 - developed so everyone can get involved in their heritage. From researching local historic landmarks, learning more about customs and traditions to delving into archives and finding out the origins of street and place names - this new programme will give everyone the chance to explore their heritage and share what they learn with others.

Sara Hilton, Head of the HLF North West England, said:
"One of our key aims is to provide the funds groups needed to explore the stories, people and places that are important to them and make history accessible to everyone. This free BBC Learning showcase event is a great opportunity for people to find out how to apply for funding. We look forward to having as many people as possible this Saturday to enjoy hands-on activities, workshops and talks and most of all find out more about what is available to them through our new small grant scheme and various other grant programmes."

Abigail Appleton, Head of Commissioning for BBC Learning, said: "Having the HLF with All Our Stories at BBC Learning's showcase events will give community groups a powerful way to take their learning journeys further. I look forward hugely to seeing what is uncovered."

To find out more about these grants and how to apply, visit the HLF stand at BBC Learning events throughout the summer, or go to the HLF All Our Stories page.

BBC Learning

BBC Learning is hosting a number of The Great British Story events across the UK. HLF will be present at showcase events with advice to support applications under All Our Stories. These events will provide opportunities for people to discover their place in history, learn about their surnames and uncover the history of their local area. BBC and partner events will be listed on BBC Things to Do from May.

All Our Stories grants

Applications will be accepted from a wide range of organisations including community groups, heritage organisations and charities. The application process is simple:

- Go to the All Our Stories programme page
- Enter the details of your organisation
- Answer a series of simple questions including, what you want to do, how you will do it and how much money you will require.

Applications need to be submitted online by Tuesday 31 July 2012 and applicants will receive a decision by October 2012.

Expert university help for your project

HLF is working in partnership with universities throughout the UK to offer grant applicants support with their activities. This could include help from a local history expert, an archaeologist, or an archivist. This help has been made available through the AHRC's Connected Communities programme whose aim is to understand through research the changing nature of communities and the role of communities in sustaining and enhancing our quality of life. A call for participation was issued towards the end of 2011 and 21 organisations were selected following peer review.
