Overview

The Green Recovery Capacity Building Scheme is a new £920,000 revenue grant scheme to increase capacity within the environmental non-governmental organisation (eNGO) sector.

What do we mean by green recovery?

- reversing the decline in nature
- addressing the changing climate and increasing resilience to the impacts of climate change
- tackling unsustainable patterns of production and consumption (the circular economy)
- investment that supports job creation and new markets (economic recovery)
- targeting action to those groups, communities and places that are most vulnerable, and/or have been hit hardest to address underlying inequalities and deprivation (social recovery)

Aims of the fund

Through the Green Recovery Capacity Building Scheme we want to:

- provide support to eNGOs to increase capacity through strengthened governance, financial resilience, community engagement, project development and other relevant skills.
- put eNGOs - particularly smaller organisations - on a more sustainable footing by supporting the development of higher quality projects
- improve the reach of eNGOs into under-represented communities (ethnic minorities, young people, disabled people, areas of deprivation, etc)
