Sustaining heritage in Northern Ireland

The Heritage Fund's Director of Northern Ireland, Paul Mullan, said: "We are grateful to the Department for Communities for providing this funding to help the heritage sector confront the ongoing challenges of COVID-19.

“Many of our heritage organisations have lost income during a challenging year and without support, we risk losing the skills of individuals whose livelihoods depend on heritage.

“We hope this funding will play a vital role in sustaining heritage in Northern Ireland.”
