

The social benefits of involvement in heritage projects

15/09/2011

We have looked at the social benefits of involvement in HLF projects through two different pieces of research. The first three-year research study was carried out between 2005 and 2007, and involved a mix of interviews and case study reviews. New research started in 2008 that built on the results obtained through the earlier research, this used a more quantitative approach to assess the benefits for individuals of volunteering on HLF projects.

Attachment	Size
The social impact of HLF fund	1.61 MB
The social impact of volunteering 2011	1.78 MB
The social impact of volunteering 2010	1.18 MB
The social impact of volunteering 2009	599.04 KB